

Dear Members and friends,

Spring is slowly peeking its head. Hoping everyone made it through the bouts of cold weather, flu, and general malaise without too much consternation.

The first 2018 newsletter from the Medical Section is below, as well as a wealth of summer conference opportunities. Please take note of the opportunity to contribute an article to the Lilipoh publication.

Towards blossoming and fruition in your work.
~ Barbara Bresette-Mills

Call for articles from LILIPOH magazine:

Many of you may not know that when LILIPOH was first inaugurated over 20 years ago, its purpose was to be an anthroposophic medical publication for patients and lay people.

Over the years, we expanded out to provide readers with a broad understanding of health and healthy living by publishing articles on farming and gardening, childhood, social health, living economies, and the arts.

Part of keeping the magazine fresh means that we consistently examine LILIPOH's focus to make sure we are making the best use of our pages in the highest service to our readers.

It seems that the time is right to more strongly reconnect LILIPOH with the publication's original medical and home-care impulse as a way to support strong prevention, self-care independence, financial freedom, and to empower us to care for our loved ones, and to be our healthiest selves to we can do our important work in the world.

In upcoming issues, we look forward to exploring topics alongside you such as Dementia, Trauma, Death & Dying, Pain, and School Doctoring. We hope you will join us along the journey by becoming a contributing author to our publication.

Please email LILIPOH editor, Christy Korrow, at editor@lilipoh.com for details about deadlines and other specifics.
